

HOW INNOCENCE IS DESTROYED

(Mr. Dan Hunnicutt, well known in Ocala, now of Alba, Mo., furnishes the following elegant little poem to the Jacksonville Metropolis.-Ed. Ban-

Low, there beside the meadow lane A tender flower grows; She thrives on sunshine, dew and rain-

No evil thing she knows.

Pure, innocent and passion-free, And fair to look upon-Her virgin breath, sweet to thee, Wert thou a righteous one

Fleet humming-birds and honey-bees Her patronage compete. And find her rich in what they please, And naught but honey-sweet.

But in Night's dark and shady gloom Comes creeping through the grass. A spider to that sweet bloom. And poison finds! Alas!

And so in human life we find The humming-birds and bees Pure-eyed, sweet-souled and high of

And innocence at ease

Then, too, alas! we often see The human spider creep Where fairest human-flowers be-And innocence go weep!

Call for a Deep Waterway Convention The formal call has been issued for a deep waterway convention to be held at Memphis, Tenn on October 4. It has been addressed to all gov ernors of states in the Mississippi Missouri and Ohlo valleys, and to all mayors of vitles of one thousand or more population in that great district. President Roosevelt is to so time his trip of inspection from the Mississiphi as to arrive on the law day of the convention, when he is expected to make a stirring speech on the need for increased transportation facilities through the development of the nation's rivers.
